

◆THE SHOOTDOC◆

Five Scripted, Four to Shoot

Thursday 3 September 2026 · office · whiteboard + big screen

Order: Anti-Pitch → Off-Plan or Ready → Real Number → UK Guide → £500K (drop whichever runs out of time)

Law: claim in frame one · re-hook every 8-10s · dead stop, no outro

Shares are the metric. Every reel names who to send it to.

Off-Plan or Ready?

FRAME 1 · HOOK

“Should I invest in off-plan or ready property in Dubai? Here's the truth.”

FRAME 2

Wrong question. The real one: yield or growth? Ready pays rent from day one - 5 to 7% a year. Off-plan pays nothing for three years, because it's built for one thing: growth.

FRAME 3 · RE-HOOK

“And here's what off-plan gives you that ready never can.” You pay in slices over three years - no mortgage, no bank. You choose the best plot before anyone's lived there. And 25% down controls 100% of the price. A client of mine put €750K in and took €750K out eight months later. 100% on his cash.

FRAME 4

Here's what ready gives you that off-plan never can. Keys today. A tenant today. A bank that lends you 80% - so the same €750K buys a €3.75M home, and the tenant pays most of the mortgage. You're earning from day one.

FRAME 5 · RE-HOOK

“So which one's for you?” Off-plan: you've got cash arriving in stages, you can wait three years, and you want the biggest jump. Ready: you want income now, you want a mortgage doing the heavy lifting, and you want to walk through it first.

FRAME 6 · THE PRO'S RULE

The best investors I work with hold both. Ready pays the bills. Off-plan makes the jump. And they time it - off-plan when a cycle's early, ready when the yields are high.

FRAME 7 · TURN

I sell both. My own money went into off-plan this year, because I could wait and I wanted the growth. Next year it might be ready. The tool changes. The question doesn't.

DEAD STOP

“Off-plan buys the growth. Ready buys the rent. Know which one you're buying.”

Rails: “around” on the 5-7% yield. 8-month double stays anonymised at “over 750K”.

The UK Investor Guide

FRAME 1 · HOOK

"I've watched UK investors make the same five mistakes in Dubai. So I put them in writing."

FRAME 2 · RULE NAMES ON SCREEN

The UK made being a landlord a punishment. Section 24 took your mortgage interest relief. Stamp duty surcharge, 5% on every extra property. Capital gains, 24%. Renters' Rights killed Section 21. And the EPC rules are coming for the rest.

FRAME 3 · RE-HOOK

So you looked at Dubai. 0% income tax. 0% capital gains. No stamp duty - 4% one-off and that's it. I get it. It's why I'm here.

FRAME 4

But here's what happens next. You land on a video with a render and a payment plan, and you wire a deposit you can't get back. Different country, same trap - just a nicer brochure.

FRAME 5 · RE-HOOK · FLICK THE PAGES

So I wrote the guide I wish someone had handed me. 14 pages. What off-plan really costs, how your pounds get in and out, which developers actually deliver, and the five mistakes British money keeps making here.

FRAME 6 · TURN

It's honest because I've bought off-plan here myself - with my own money, my own contract, my own lessons. Everything in it is what I'd tell my brother before he wired a penny.

FRAME 7 · SHARE LINE

Escaping bad rules at home shouldn't mean walking into new ones. If you know someone leaving the UK market - send them this before they wire anything.

DEAD STOP

"Comment GUIDE. It's in your DMs."

Funnel: DM every commenter, no links in comments. Names to prebuyers as "Guide reel". Day-3: "Which page made you think?" Guide must carry a five-mistakes list.

The Anti-Pitch: Who Shouldn't Buy Dubai

FRAME 1 · HOOK

“Everyone's telling UK landlords to buy Dubai. Here's the honest list of who shouldn't.”

FRAME 2

One: if you need the money back inside three years. It costs around 7% to get in, 2% to get out. Short holds get eaten alive.

FRAME 3 · RE-HOOK

Two: if you're buying because of a video. Mine included. A launch pitch is not a location. If you can't say why that street, don't wire anything.

FRAME 4

Three: if a 12-month delay or a 15% dip would hurt. Both happen here. Both are survivable - if you planned for them. If you didn't, you're the seller at the bottom.

FRAME 5 · RE-HOOK

Four: if you need income from day one but you're looking at off-plan. Off-plan pays nothing for three years. That's not a flaw. It's the product.

FRAME 6

Five: if the only reason is escaping UK tax. Zero tax on a bad investment is still a bad investment. Tax is the bonus. It's never the reason.

FRAME 7 · TURN

Who should? Someone with a five-year horizon, cash they won't need, a street they can name, and a contract they've actually read. That person does very well here. I work with them every week.

DEAD STOP

“Send this to the friend who's about to buy. It'll either save them, or confirm they're ready.”

Rails: 7% in (4% DLD + 2% agency + fees), 2% out, 12-month RERA tolerance - all verified. The dead stop is the share instruction; no separate CTA.

The Real Number in 30 Seconds

FRAME 1 · HOOK

“Every asking price in Dubai is a wish. Here's how to find the real number in 30 seconds.”

FRAME 2 · LISTING ON SCREEN

Asking ₪10.5 million. Looks about right for the area. Now watch.

FRAME 3 · RE-HOOK · SCREEN-RECORD THE REGISTER

Same community, same layout, last three SOLD - registered with the land department, not typed by an agent. 9.0. 9.2. 9.35.

FRAME 4

So the real number is around 9.2. That asking price is ₪1.3 million of hope. And 90% of buyers never check.

FRAME 5 · TURN

I do this on every unit before I let a client offer. Thirty seconds. It's saved people seven figures. The register is public. The habit isn't.

DEAD STOP

“Comment the community and I'll send you the most recent transactions.”

Rail: use a REAL listing and its REAL last-three from the register on the day - the figures above are the shape, not a quote. Tell Max the community and the actual three get pulled the night before. Reply to every comment publicly with three real numbers, then DM.

£500K, Starting Again - All Off-Plan

FRAME 1 · HOOK

“If I landed in the UAE tomorrow with £500K and had to start again - here's exactly what I'd do. All off-plan.”

FRAME 2 · WHITEBOARD

£500K is about £2.4 million. Rule one: I buy one thing. I keep the rest for the big launches coming.

FRAME 3 · RE-HOOK

One off-plan unit, around £3M, on a 40/60 plan - 40% spread evenly over four years of construction. That's £1.2M, but only £300K a year. Growth market, small annual bite.

FRAME 4

Which means the £1.2M isn't gone. Most of it sits in the account, earning interest, waiting for its instalment date. My money working twice - on the building and in the bank.

FRAME 5 · RE-HOOK

The other £1.2M? Untouched. Because there are more launches coming in the next twelve months than in any year I've worked here - and the best one hasn't been announced yet.

FRAME 6 · TURN

So: one position in the market that's moving, paid slowly, cash earning while it waits - and a full war chest for the launch that's actually worth it. Everyone else spends the whole pot on day one because the sales centre said “sold out.”

DEAD STOP

“Different number? Comment it. I'll tell you how I'd split it.”

Maths: £3M × 40% = £1.2M over 4 yrs = £300K/yr; 60% at handover. Rails: “around” on interest; the £3M unit is illustrative unless a real project is named. Conversion: a budget in a comment is a qualified lead - public one-line split, DM the full version, log to the bench.