INDICATIVE VALUE TODAY

≈ ₪8.1M

Jasmine Lane's proven resale rate (₪1,924/sqft)
applied to your 4,233 sqft

+₪1.07M on your entry · +15% in six months

Arguably conservative: that benchmark is 3-beds on half your plot.

Three signals, all pointing the same way

1 • PINEWOOD RELEASES AFTER YOURS

15 sales • median D1,897/sqft

Every developer release since March priced above your D1,672 entry. Headline prices partly reflect larger plots in later phases - but per-sqft, the developer now sells the same product for more than you paid.

2 • NEAREST COMPARABLE: JASMINE LANE

18 resales • median D1,924/sqft

Elie Saab 3-beds on ~1,500 sqft plots - HALF your land - and the resale market pays D1,924/sqft. Your entry sits ~13% below the district's proven resale level, with double the plot.

3 • JGE DISTRICT INDEX

+4.96% in 6 mo • +4.57% in 3

The -5.9% twelve-month figure captures the conflict dip; the recovery since is clear and consistent. JGE is one of Dubai's few genuinely supply-capped premium districts.

All Pinewood transactions to date are primary sales - no resale market exists yet. First resales typically set the premium benchmark as handover approaches.

What the numbers could look like

Assuming ~10% annual district appreciation (range 8–12%) over the ~3 years from purchase to handover:

Projected value at handover	₪9.4M	range ₪8.9M – ₪9.9M
Projected gain vs purchase	+₪2.3M	range +₪1.8M – +₪2.9M
ROI on purchase price	+33%	range +26% – +41%
ROE on cash deployed (80%)	+41%	range +32% – +51%

RENTAL, ONCE HANDED OVER

₪495,000 / year

~7% on purchase price • range 6–8% = ₪425K–566K • ≈ ₪41K/month

Projections, not promises: based on stated assumptions and current district data. Excludes 4% DLD and fees. Markets move both ways - this year's conflict dip is the proof.

Bought well. Positioned better.

Your entry sits below every developer release since, and below the district's proven resale level - in a supply-capped premium location recovering strongly post-conflict. The sensible play is patience: let the payment plan run, let JGE re-rate into handover.

I track this market daily and will send these updates as the picture moves.
