

AD 1 — Investor: “Join Me”

~45 seconds • numbers get on-screen text in the edit

HOOKS — RECORD ALL 3

- ◆ “The world’s biggest names are moving to this island — and their people have nowhere to live.”
- ◆ “I’ve seen every off-plan project in this market. This is the one I put my own money into — here’s why.”
- ◆ “Demand to live on this island is exploding. Supply can’t keep up.”

PROBLEM

- ◆ “This island grew employment visas 50% last year.”
- ◆ “Goldman Sachs. BlackRock. HSBC — all set up here.”
- ◆ “Thousands of high earners arriving — and not enough quality homes for them.”

NUMBERS

- ◆ “Two-beds here start from around £40,000 down — then around £30,000 every six months through the payment plan.”
- ◆ “And my own target in net rent? Between those two numbers — every single year.”
- ◆ “And if I was flipping? I’d be targeting at least doubling my cash invested.”

CLOSE

- ◆ “I’ve put my money where my mouth is — I own here myself.”
- ◆ “Reach out if you want to join me.” DEAD STOP

AD 2 — Generic: “Wrong Famous Island”

~20-25 seconds • NO price • NO project name anywhere

HOOKS — RECORD ALL 3

- ◆ “Abu Dhabi has an island problem — the wrong ones are famous.”
- ◆ “The banks moved first. The families followed. Most investors still haven’t noticed.”
- ◆ “There’s one island in Abu Dhabi where demand is exploding — and it’s not the one on your feed.”

BODY

- ◆ “Everyone knows Yas. Everyone knows Saadiyat. Nobody’s watching the one in between quietly filling up.”
- ◆ “Employment visas up 50% in a year. The world’s biggest banks setting up. Homes going before people even learn the name.”
- ◆ “By the time an island gets famous, the money’s already been made.”

→ Running long? Cut the Yas/Saadiyat line — the “money’s already been made” line ALWAYS stays.

CLOSE

- ◆ “Comment ‘WHERE’ — and I’ll tell you.” DEAD STOP

AD 3 — Yas Point vs Tara Park

~45 seconds • honest-odds comparison

HOOKS — RECORD ALL 4

- ◆ “At Yas, 2.5 million buys you one bedroom. Ten minutes away, it nearly buys you two.”
- ◆ “Same budget. Two islands. Very different investments.”
- ◆ “Everyone’s buying Yas right now. Here’s what nobody’s telling you.”
- ◆ “Do you want an investment that works for you — or one you work for?”

PROBLEM

- ◆ “Yas Point is everywhere right now — and the demand is real.”
- ◆ “But it’s short-stay demand. Holiday lets. Check-ins, cleaning fees, management, admin.”
- ◆ “That’s not a hands-off investment — that’s a part-time job. Which is great... if that’s what you want.”

PITCH

- ◆ “At Yas Point, around 2.5 million gets you a one-bed.”
- ◆ “For barely more, this island gives you a two-bed — bigger home, better rate per square foot.”
- ◆ “Long-term tenants, not tourists — and demand growing because the world’s biggest names are moving in next door.”
- ◆ “Yas gives you a busy asset. This gives you a quiet one that pays.”

CLOSE

- ◆ “I chose the quiet one — with my own money.”
- ◆ “Comment ‘YAS’ or ‘TARA’ — tell me which investor you are.”

DEAD STOP

SET RULES

- ◆ Never repeat a hook’s line inside that version’s body.
- ◆ “Target / targeting” on every money claim — never “guaranteed”.
- ◆ Every close is a hard stop. No outro, no “thanks for watching”.
- ◆ Ten hooks, three ads — the edit pairs each hook with the same body.