Where you stand, honestly: the first phase launched and sold out almost immediately - ₹1.5 billion of it in the opening week. That speed tells you what demand looks like here. It also means two live routes in for you: priority access to the next phase the moment it opens, and a watching brief on Phase 1 resales if an early buyer takes profit. This pack gives you the full picture - so when a door opens, you can move in hours, not weeks.

◆ Why Yas Island

Yas is Abu Dhabi's entertainment engine - Ferrari World, Yas Waterworld, Warner Bros., SeaWorld, the F1 circuit and Yas Mall on one island, ten minutes from the airport. That drives a deep short-stay rental market and year-round visitor demand few districts anywhere can match. Yas Point adds the missing piece: a waterfront residential quarter with its own beach, marina and retail promenade on the island's northern shore - Aldar's biggest statement here to date.

◆ Where Prices Start

TYPE	SIZE (SQFT)	FROM (AED)	≈ FROM (ZAR)	D / SQFT
Studio	495	From 1,650,000	R 8.0M	~3,330
1 Bedroom	872	From 2,200,000	R 10.7M	~2,520
2 Bedroom	1,281	From 3,400,000	R 16.5M	~2,650
2 Bed + Maids	1,518	From 4,200,000	R 20.4M	~2,770
3 Bed + Maids	1,981	From 5,500,000	R 26.7M	~2,780

Starting levels from the Phase 1 launch. Resales carry premiums and the next phase is expected to open above these levels - the first phase of a masterplan is historically the cheapest entry. The 1-bedroom is the best value per square foot in the mix. ZAR at ~4.85 per AED, indicative - moves with the rate.

◆ The Payment Plan - 55/45, Every Unit Type (AED)

Handover - 45%	~Q3 2030	45%	742,500	990,000	1,530,000	1,890,000	2,475,000

Amounts at "from" levels; exact unit pricing sets the exact schedule. Dates per the Phase 1 plan - the next phase will carry its own dates in the same 55/45 shape. Day-one in hand: studio ≈ R560,000 · 1-bed ≈ R747,000 · 2-bed ≈ R1.15M · 2B+M ≈ R1.43M · 3B+M ≈ R1.87M. Agency fee (2% + VAT) applies on transaction; minor DARI/admin fees confirmed at booking. All figures indicative until reservation documents confirm.

Read the shape, not just the numbers: 7% opens the position. Only 55% is deployed across four years of construction - the remaining 45% lands only when the keys do, in 2030. Staged capital, launch-level base, a D6bn district building around you in the meantime.

◆ Two Ways to Run It - Be Honest With Yourself First

	SHORT-LET (HOLIDAY)	LONG-LET (TENANT)
The market	Deep & growing - theme parks, F1, concerts, year-round tourism	Steady - island workforce & Abu Dhabi commuters
Gross potential	Higher - event weeks (F1 especially) price exceptionally	Indicative ~6-7% gross on launch-level pricing
What it costs you	Management fees, occupancy risk, furnishing, admin - an operating business	Hands-off - one tenant, one cheque cycle
Who it suits	Owners who want max income and accept the work	Investors who want the asset working quietly

Yields indicative on today's rental market vs launch-level pricing; performance depends on unit, floor, furnishing and the market at 2030 handover. Anyone guaranteeing you a yield on a 2030 handover is guessing with confidence.

◆ Who You're Dealing With

I specialise in off-plan across the UAE - Abu Dhabi and Dubai, every major developer, every launch worth knowing about. And I don't just broker it: I invest in this market with my own money - I own at Tara Park on Reem Island myself. That matters for you in two ways: I run the same numbers on every project that I ran before spending my own, and when a project doesn't stack up, I'll tell you - because my name outlasts any single deal. Yas Point is one door. If your goals fit a different project better, I'll say so and show you why.

Next step - a call. Fifteen minutes: your budget, your goal (income vs growth vs both), and which unit type fits. From there I register your next-phase priority with your brief pre-agreed - launches here are decided in hours, and the prepared buyer wins them - and I put you on the Phase 1 resale watch in parallel. Message me a couple of times that work for you.
